

Thank You, Stuart Dempster

Stuart Dempster, UW professor of trombone, retires this June, after thirty years as a member of the University's music faculty.

"Thirty years is, at least for me, long enough to do anything. While I have some more teaching miles in me I also recognize that it is time to step aside for a younger person with new ideas and fresh energy. On the one hand, I will miss very much being with these younger musicians and watching them grow. On the other hand, I can at last have time to work on all the projects that I have been putting off for so long."
