Pacific Northwest musician SPENCER HOVESKELAND is one half of the Duet/Bottom Line Duo, a bass and cello duo that tours internationally and in the United States and Canada. The duo has also performed for over a quarter of a million students nationwide and has been presented in every imaginable way and a few unimaginable ones.

Spencer has served the board for the Gene Nastri School of the Arts in Mukilteo, WA, and helped that organization to produce a chamber music festival in Cebreros, Spain. He has also served the boards of the Seattle Musicians Union, Montana Performing Arts Consortium, and Arts Northwest.

As a freelancer Spencer has performed for numerous Broadway musicals, orchestras, movie soundtracks, and has added bass notes to many places that needed them, and a few that didn't.

UPCOMING BARRY LIEBERMAN & FRIENDS EVENT:

The American String Project Chamber Players perform the Brahms B^b string quartet and the Dvorak bass quintet Opus 77, plus select violin duos. This concert features Jorja Fleezanis (former concertmaster of the Minnesota Orchestra and now a professor of violin at Indiana University), Maria Larionoff, Barry Lieberman, and others. May 11, 2:00 PM, Brechemin Auditorium.
