PUBLIC STATEMENT

30 January, 2004

MINIMUM CONDITIONS ON POLICY PLATFORM FOR A THREE-PARTY GOVERNMENT

1. Territorial Integrity

To protect the national territorial integrity, the National Assembly is to declare null and void border treaties signed between the People's Republic of Cambodia and Vietnam in 1979, 1982, 1983, and 1985.

2. Reform of the National Election Committee and Appointment of New Village Chiefs

The NEC needs to be balanced with representatives of all the three parties. Some aspects of the Election Law need amending to ensure free and fair elections. As called for in the Commune Election Law, the Ministry of Interior is to issue guidelines for appointing new village chiefs and deputies.

3. Anti-Corruption

An acceptable draft legislation for countering corruption must be approved by the National Assembly when endorsing the new government. The latter is to establish a National Counter Corruption Commission. High-ranking government officials must declare their assets. All commercial agreements and concessions are to be released for public scrutiny.

4. Judicial Reform

The judicial system - the Supreme Council of Magistracy and courts at all levels - is to be reformed to ensure it is truly independent, and represented by legal professionals selected in an fair way agreed upon by the three parties.
