If a fire does occur, the Hanford Fire Department should always be notified, even when the fire has been extinguished by the involved party. The Fire Department can then check the burn site for possible rekindle. Radio-equipped vehicles should be used for off-road or remote location work when possible.

Your cooperation in this matter can be helpful in limiting the safety risk and costs associated with grass fires. You may wish to include this subject in selected group safety meetings, and in company newspapers, to publicize the fire prevention effort.

Very truly yours,
