I attended the first nine-day module of the graduate program that I am taking. The course is very interesting and several items apply directly to my job. It is nice to take something that has direct application to the everyday task that one performs. The next module will be in mid-November. We'll see if I learn as much the next time as I did the first time.

No credit card long distance calls were made during the month of October, that will be charged directly to us and the FTS was used only for official business calls.
