Celebrated American pianist Robin McCabe has electrified audiences on four continents with her virtuosic performances, and has established herself as one of America's most communicative and persuasive artists. As the New York Times has written, "What Ms. McCabe has that raises her playing to such a special level is a strong lyric instinct and confidence in its ability to reach and touch the listener." Ms. McCabe's involvement and musical sensibilities have delighted audiences across the United States, Europe, Canada, South America and the Far East. She has made four concert tours of Asia, performing as guest soloist with orchestras, in solo recitals, as well as lecturing and teaching at conservatories. The San Antonio press in 1990 praised Ms. McCabe for her "fleet-footed, on-target keyboard agility and her luminous coloristic palette." Following her April, 1991 recital in Seattle's Meany Hall, the Seattle Times review was headlined, "When Robin McCabe plays, people listen!"

Seattle Magazine in November 1997 selected Robin McCabe as one of 17 present and past University of Washington professors who have had an impact on the life of the Pacific Northwest. She was also featured in the recent publication, "UW Showcase: A Century of Excellence in the Arts, Humanities and Professional Schools."
