In Memoriam Donald Thulean

June 24, 1929 - April 9, 2015

The dedication of this production of The Magic Flute to the memory of Donald Thulean is much more than a recognition of his enormous positive influence on the field of classical music in Seattle in general: Don is very specifically responsible for the very existence of this cooperation between Pacific MusicWorks and the University of Washington. As a board member of Pacific MusicWorks and Chair of the UW School of Music Advisory Board, he was the first to see the potential mutual benefits that could arise, and took the step of introducing me to School of Music Director Richard Karpen. He was justly proud of the results, and we will always be dedicated to living up to his vision.

SYNOPSIS - Dan Wallace Miller

ACT ONE

Tamino, a wealthy young prince in the bad part of town, is pursued by danger and rendered unconscious. Three Ladies, servants of Lady Starfire, the Queen of the Night, save him. They fawn over him, realizing he might be the solution to their Queen’s troubles. They run off to inform their Lady as Tamino awakens in the presence of Papageno, an eccentric local who collects birds for Lady Starfire. Tamino assumes Papageno saved him from danger, and Papageno happily takes credit. The Ladies reappear and gag Papageno so he cannot talk. They show Tamino a picture of Pamina, the Queen’s daughter, and he is immediately smitten. The Queen herself appears to Tamino and explains that her daughter has been kidnapped by the evil Sarastro, and that Tamino is her only hope of rescue. The Ladies give Papageno magic bells, allow him to speak again, and send him along with Tamino, to whom they give a magic flute.

Papageno becomes separated from Tamino and sees Pamina fleeing from the besotted Monostatos, a servant of Lord Sarastro. In the darkness, Monostatos mistakes Papageno for a hulking monster and flies. Papageno recognizes Pamina and tells her of Tamino’s love and noble rescue effort. Thus befriended, they leave together in search of Tamino.

Tamino is led by three helpful Spirits to the entrance of Sarastro’s domain. They tell him that in order to achieve victory in his task, he must become a man. Tamino attempts to gain entry into Sarastro’s domain, but is repelled by unseen voices. He is greeted by Sarastro’s Speaker, who questions his intentions. The Speaker informs him that he has been deceived and that the true evil is not Sarastro, but Lady Starfire. Tamino, dejected, plays his magic flute.

In the distance, Papageno and Pamina hear Tamino, who rushes off to find them. Papageno and Pamina are intercepted by Monostatos and his bevy of minions, who threaten to enslave the both of them. Papageno plays his magic bells. The charmed music drives off the villains, and they then find themselves in front of Sarastro. Pamina admits to Sarastro that she attempted escape, and Sarastro forgives her, saying that while she is not yet free, forcing Monostatos’ love upon her was wrong. Monostatos enters with Tamino in tow, and Sarastro congratulates him for catching the intruder before sending him off to be lashed. Sarastro orders Tamino be purified.

ACT TWO

Sarastro explains to his Company of followers that Tamino and Papageno must undergo the Trials in order to be taken into the Company. Pamina says her goodbyes to Tamino, who embarks on a dangerous journey that could lead to death. Papageno and Tamino are led to a chamber. A Priest tells Papageno that if he succeeds in his trials, Sarastro has the perfect mate for him: Papagena. The Priests tell the men that they must undergo a vow of silence and not speak, even to their intended loves. The Queen’s three ladies appear and try to talk sense into Papageno and Tamino, but are ignored.

Meanwhile, Monostatos lustfully sneaks into Pamina’s sleeping chamber, enraged with envy and self-loathing. The Queen appears and drives Monostatos off. She presents her daughter with a knife and commands her to murder Sarastro. Monostatos overhears and threatens to tell Sarastro of Pamina’s plans unless she submits to him. Sarastro enters and casts Monostatos out of his domain. Sarastro explains to Pamina that vengeance has no place in his kingdom.

The three Spirits come to Papageno and Tamino and give the men their magical instruments, which were taken by Sarastro. Pamina enters and is overjoyed to find Tamino, who, following the Priests’ commands, ignores her. Dejected and unloved, Pamina runs off. Papageno, out of boredom, plays his magic bells and muses about how much he’d like a girlfriend. A grotesque creature appears and tells Papageno that she is destined for him. He is incredulous, and she transforms into Papagena before disappearing.

Pamina, wracked with sorrow, attempts to kill herself with her mother's knife. The three Spirits stop her and bring her to Tamino, who is undergoing the Trials.

Papageno, having blown it with Papagena, attempts suicide. The three Spirits stop him and tell him to play his magic bells. The bells make Papagena appear and the two gleefully embrace, with plans on spawning many little Papagenos.

With her and the magic flute's help, Tamino and Pamina survive the trials. Monostatos leads the Queen of the Night and her three Ladies into Sarastro's domain, where Sarastro captures them. The Company rejoices.

BIOGRAPHIES

Julia Benzinger, Third Lady, mezzo soprano

Hailed by the International Herald Tribune for her "luscious mezzo" and Der Tagesspiel for "her impressive, metallic dramatic soprano", American mezzo-soprano Julia Benzinger is enjoying a career in both opera and concert throughout Europe and the United States.

The 2014-2015 season sees Ms. Benzinger return to the Deutsche Oper Berlin as Il Musico in Puccini's Manon Lescaut. In November, Julia will be seen with Music of Remembrance in Songs and Satire from Terezin. Later in the season she will make her role debut as the title character in Fauré's Pénélopé. Recent engagements have seen her return to the USA for performances of Lucretia (The Rape of Lucretia), La Frugola (Il tabarro) and Zita (Gianni Schicchi).

More info at julianabenzinger.com.

Holly Boaz, First Lady, soprano

Soprano Holly Boaz (hollyboaz.com) enjoys a varied career in opera, concert, choral, and chamber music. Recent appearances include Vespertine Opera, Early Music Vancouver, Seattle Symphony, Aspen Music Festival, Hartford Symphony, Tacoma Opera, Vashon Opera, Music of Remembrance, The Russian Chamber Music Foundation, and the Aldeburgh Festival in England. She is a graduate of the Seattle Opera Young Artists Program, a winner of the LMC Seattle Competition, and the Northwest Region NATS Artist Award Competition. She has also won awards from the Metropolitan Opera National Council Auditions, The Richardson Awards, and Sun Valley Opera. She was a fellowship recipient at the Aspen Music Festival and Music Academy of the West and holds degrees from the University of Wisconsin and the Hartt School.
Alasdair Elliott, Monostatos, tenor

One of Europe’s leading character tenors, Alasdair Elliott’s acclaimed portrayals include such roles as Mime (Der Ring); Pong and The Emperor (Turandot), Monostatos (Die Zauberflöte); Red Whiskers (Billy Budd); Bardolpho and Claus (Falstaff); First and Fourth Jew (Salome) for opera houses worldwide including the Royal Opera, Covent Garden, The Netherlands Opera, La Monnaie, Glyndebourne Festival Opera, Israeli Opera and Staatsoper, Stuttgart. He most recently was heard as Spoletta (Tosca) for Seattle Opera. His recording of Falstaff (Dr. Ciaus) for LSO Live under Sir Colin Davis, part of an extensive discography for EMI, Virgin Classics, Chandos and Glyndebourne Live, won a Grammy in 2005. More info at alasdairelliott.com

Mary Feminear, Pamina, soprano

American soprano Mary Feminear has been hailed by critics as “a commandingly rich, almost mezzo-like soprano” (Opera News), and as showing “versatility… in her sorrowing and in her transcendent joy” (NYTimes). Most recently she performed in the title role of Seattle Opera’s production of Semele and with Juilliard 415 as Maria Maddalena in Handel’s La resurrezione under the baton of William Christie. In 2014, she performed with Gotham Chamber Opera in a production of Charpentier’s La descente d’Orphée aux enfers and in Bach’s St. Matthew Passion in Alice Tully Hall with Juilliard 415. In 2013, Mary was seen as Polissena in Juilliard’s production of Handel’s Radamisto and in Mahler’s 4th Symphony with the Juilliard orchestra. Other credits include Susanna (Le nozze di Figaro), Sophie (Der Rosenkavalier), and Abigail Williams (The Crucible). In the fall of 2015, she will be joining the studio at Le Grand Théâtre de Genève. Ms. Feminear, an Auburn, Alabama native, holds degrees from Juilliard and Columbia University.

Candace Frank, Costume Designer

Candace is excited to design at UW for the first time since receiving her Masters of Fine Arts in Costume Design in 2010. She was named an Artist to Watch in 2013 by Seattle Met Magazine and received the Gypsy Lee Rose Award for Costume Design in 2014 for Sound Theatre Company’s The Wild Party. Candace serves as Resident Costume Designer for Lucia Neare’s Theatrical Wonders and Sound Theatre Company. Upcoming projects include The Pirates of Penzance (Seattle Gilbert & Sullivan Society); Peter Pan (Village Theatre KidStage); ... And Jesus Moonwalks the Mississippi (Sound Theatre); Wizard Pizzer (Theatre 22); Indian Ink (Sound Theatre); Penelope (Vespertine Opera / UW). Favorite previous design credits include Passing Strange (Sidecountry Theatre / ACT Lab); Tarzan (Village Theatre KidStage); Don Giovanni (Seattle Opera); Iolanthe (Seattle G&S); Twelfth Night, Blithe Spirit, Batboy, Wild Black-Eyed Susans (UW).

Celeste Godin, Second Lady, soprano

Celeste Godin, is delighted to be making her debut with Pacific MusicWorks. She recently concluded her graduate studies in Vocal Pedagogy at New England Conservatory. There, she performed as Blanche de la Force in Dialogues of the Carmelites, First Lady in Die Zauberflöte, and performed the Beethoven concert aria (A Perfido) with orchestra. In 2013, she appeared in La Bohème Seattle Opera Guild Previews (Mimi), as a young artist with Tacoma Opera from 2011 to 2013, and as a soprano soloist for Bach’s Magnificat with the Seattle Bach Choir. During her undergraduate work at Pacific Lutheran University, she appeared as Semele in Handel’s Semele, and Lady Billows in Britten’s Albert Herring. Ms. Godin studies with Jane Eaglen.
Emma Grimsley, Papagena, soprano

Emma Grimsley debuted professionally last year as Lucia in Vespertine Opera Theater’s production of Britten’s The Rape of Lucretia. She has recently been seen in Ash Lawn Opera’s Candide as Cunegonde, as Guenevere in Camelot and Gretel in Hansel and Gretel at the Seagle Music Colony, and as Johanna in Sweeney Todd with Eugene Opera. In addition she has appeared over the last year as the Queen of the Night in Die Zauberflöte at Loyola University New Orleans and as Minette in the West Coast premiere of Hans Werner Henze’s The English Cat at the University of Southern California. Upcoming engagements include Summer 2015 at the Aspen Music Festival.

Karen Hartman, Playwright

Ross Hauck, Tamino, tenor

Lyric tenor Ross Hauck is a resident of Issaquah, Washington, where he lives with his wife, Laura, twin boys, Daniel and Benjamin, daughter Lillian Rose, and baby girl Charlotte Grace.

Hailed by the Seattle Times as “almost superhuman in musical effect”, Mr. Hauck maintains a busy and eclectic career, often specializing in both early and new music. This past year Mr. Hauck made concert debuts with the Phoenix Symphony, the Oregon Symphony, Grand Rapids Symphony, Orchestra Kentucky, the Lincoln Symphony, and the Chautauqua festivals in Boulder, Co and upstate New York. As a concert artist, Mr. Hauck is a regular with the Seattle Symphony, and has also sung with the National Symphony, Chicago Symphony as a member of the Steans Institute, and the Tanglewood symphony.

Jenn Hill, Wigs and Make-up

Jenn is a Seattle native who graduated from the University of Washington in 2010 with a BA in Drama. Since then she kept head first into working two seasons with The Santa Fe Opera and then spent 2014 at the Oregon Shakespeare Festival. Having returned to the Seattle area she is elated to be working for Seattle Opera, Seattle Repertory Theatre, and PNB primarily. Please feel free to browse more of her work at www.jennhillmakeup.webs.com
Dan Wallace Miller, Stage Director
A graduate of the University of Washington School of Music, Dan Wallace Miller is the Artistic Director of Vespertine Opera Theater, a Seattle-based company that presents operas in unique spaces. He has directed and produced a variety of productions with his company, including the U.S. premiere of Britten’s English adaptation of Poulenc’s Les mamelles de Tirésias at Seattle’s oldest Vaudeville theater and bar, and Britten’s The Rape of Lucretia in Seattle’s biggest landmark cathedral. In addition to being the Resident Assistant Director at Seattle Opera for their 2015/16 season, he has worked on many of their productions, including Wagner’s Der Ring des Nibelungen and Tristan und Isolde, Puccini’s Madama Butterfly and Tosca, Mozart’s Don Giovanni, and the Young Artists Program productions of Massenet’s Werther and Donizetti’s Don Pasquale. Upcoming productions with Vespertine Opera Theater include Heart Mountain, a newly commissioned work by Sarah Mattox, and Fauré’s Pénélope for the University of Washington’s International Fauré Conference.

Christopher Mumaw, Scenic Designer, Co-Production Manager
Credits include: The Dog of the South (Book-It), SPRAWL with Pete Rush (WET), Judy’s Scary Little Christmas (ArtsWest), Gregory Award Winning production of The Amazing Adventures of Kavalier and Clay (Book-It), The Rape of Lucretia at St. Marks Cathedral (Vespertine Opera Theater), Little Women (ArtsWest), and The Last Five Years (Cornish). Upcoming Projects include Grease: the Musical (5th Ave Theater) and Great Expectations (Portland Center Stage). Christopher has a Masters of Fine Arts from the University of Washington and a Bachelors of Fine Arts from Wright State University in his home town of Dayton, Ohio. www.ChristopherMumaw.com

Geoffrey Penar, Papageno, baritone
Geoffrey Penar has appeared in productions ranging from musical theatre, to operetta, to grand opera. In the summer of 2014, Geoffrey was a young artist for the second time with the Green Mountain Opera Festival, previously playing “Alcindoro” and “Benoit” in their 2012 La bohème, this time singing the role of “Tarquinius” in Britten’s dark chamber opera The Rape of Lucretia. Vermont Today called Geoffrey, “a sly, randy Tarquinius, with a rich dark and effective voice.” Other credits include Count Almaviva (Le nozze di Figaro) at Hubbard Hall Opera Theatre; Lescaut (Manon Lescaut), Ben the Gardener (The Secret Garden), and Buff (The Impresario) with Eastman Opera Theater; Lancelot (Camelot) and General Bognaowitsch (The Merry Widow) with Ohio Light Opera Company. This summer, Geoffrey will be an Apprentice Artist at Des Moines Metro Opera.

Colin Ramsey, Sarastro, bass-baritone
Young American Bass-Baritone, Colin Ramsey is quickly being recognized for his “Deep, rich bass” (Seattle Times) and “touching” performances across the US. His engagements include performances at Seattle Opera, Austin Lyric Opera, Wolf Trap Opera, Opera Santa Barbara, Des Moines Metro Opera, The Green Mountain Opera Festival, Pacific Music Works, and Opera Naples. He has found success in a varied repertoire including Seneca in L’Incoronazione di Poppea, Collatinus in The Rape of Lucretia, Alidoro in La Cenerentola, Mozart’s Don Giovanni, Somnus/Cadmus in Handel’s Semele, Basilio in Il barbiere di Siviglia, and Il Frate in Verdi’s Don Carlo. He has worked with the young artist programs at Des Moines Metro Opera, Seattle Opera, and Opera Santa Barbara.
Matthew Scollin, Speaker of the Temple, bass-baritone

A Michigan native, bass-baritone Matthew Scollin (matthewscollin.com) recently completed a residency with Virginia Opera, singing roles such as Zuniga (Carmen), Truffaldino (Ariadne auf Naxos), Dick Deadeye (H.M.S. Pinafore), and Marchese d’Obigny (La traviata). Last summer, he was the bass soloist in Verdi’s Requiem with the Portland Symphonic Choir and made his Glimmerglass debut as Lackey in Ariadne auf Naxos. Returning to Glimmerglass in 2015, Scollin will sing James/Martin in Candide. An alum of Seattle Opera’s 2012-13 Young Artists Program, Scollin performed La Rocca in Verdi’s Un giorno di regno and appeared on the mainstage as 2nd Prisoner in Fidelio. Scollin has also participated in Santa Fe Opera’s Apprentice Program and San Francisco Opera’s Merola Opera Program.

Cyndia Sieden, The Queen of the Night, soprano

American soprano Cyndia Sieden moves easily among the Baroque, classical, romantic and contemporary repertoires to worldwide acclaim. In addition, her performances and recordings of his works affirm her status as one of the sovereign Mozart interpreters of the present day.

Sieden has starred at most of the world’s great opera houses, including the Munich Bayerische Staatsoper, the Metropolitan Opera, Paris’s Opéra Bastille, the Wiener Staatsoper, Barcelona’s Gran Teatre de Liceu, Brussels’s La Monnaie, and London’s Covent Garden and English National, as well as in Beijing and Australia. Her highly praised Metropolitan Opera debut was as Berg’s Lulu, and her success quickly led to reengagement in 2008 for Die Zauberflöte’s Queen of the Night, one of her signature roles.

Stephen Stubbs, Conductor

Stephen Stubbs, who won the GRAMMY Award as conductor for Best Opera Recording 2015, spent a 30-year career in Europe. He returned to his native Seattle in 2006 as one of the world’s most respected lutenists, conductors, and baroque opera specialists and in 2014 was awarded the Mayor’s Arts Award for ‘Raising the Bar’ in Seattle.

In 2007 Stephen established his new production company, Pacific MusicWorks, based in Seattle, reflecting his lifelong interest in both early music and contemporary performance.

Stephen is also the Boston Early Music Festival’s permanent artistic co-director along with his long time colleague Paul O’Dette. Stephen and Paul are also the musical directors of all BEMF operas, recordings of which were nominated for three GRAMMY awards, and won the GRAMMY for Best Opera Recording 2015. In 2013, Stephen was appointed Senior Artist in Residence at the University of Washington School of Music tasked with creating professional opera productions at the University. His first major production there was Handel’s Semele in May 2014 followed by Mozart’s Magic Flute in 2015.

Alex Ung, Choreographer

Alex Ung has been teaching dance and choreography for over 11 years starting at Iowa State University’s Dance Club and is currently the head hip hop and jazz instructor for Bainbridge Ballet. He’s the artistic director for Olympic Performance Group and has choreographed, designed, staged, and performed in several of their shows, choreographed the fight scene and was the lead for the Snow Leopard Trust Fund’s production of M.A.P. Of the Snow Leopard at the Woodland Park Zoo, and performed in musicals including Bainbridge Performing Arts’ A Chorus Line, Seattle Musical Theater’s Rocky Horror Picture, and other small stage venues. This is Alex’s first time choreographing an opera and is ecstatic at the opportunity and to be able to work along side such inspiring talent.
