Remarks, Boers 4:08

Prelude: With Sighs too Deep for Words... 1:06

from THREE NEW MOTETS: O SACRUM CONVIVIUM... 2:50... STEVEN STUCKY (b. 1949)

O sacred banquet in which Christ is received,
The memory of his Passion is renewed,
The mind is filled with grace,
And a pledge of future glory to us is given.

Alleluia.

Interlude 1: Bittersweet and HappySad 2:58

O Tod Wie Bitter Lust, Op. 110, No. 3 ....... 9:08.............. MAX REGER (1873-1916)

O death, how bitter is the remembrance of you to a person at peace with his possessions, to a man undistracted and prospering in everything and still having strength to welcome a luxury.

O death, your judgement is good to a person who is needy and lacking strength, who is in extreme old age and is anxious about everything and who is disobedient and has lost hope.

Remarks, Boers

Interlude 2: Listening to the why and how

from VILLAROSA SEQUENCES: VILLAROSA SARIALDI ... THOMAS JENNEFELT (b. 1954)

Interlude 3: A world of beauty

O SALUTARIS HOSTIA .................. 3:30.............. ERIKS ESENVALDS (b. 1977)

O saving Victim, opening wide
The gate of Heaven to us below;
Our foes press hard on every side;
Your aid supply; Your strength bestow.

To your great name be endless praise,
Immortal Godhead, One in Three.
O grant us endless length of days,
In our true native land with thee.

Amen.

Interlude 4: He's Got the Whole World in His Hands 1:21

from MASQUE OF ANGELS: SANCTUS ............... 3:41.............. DOMINICK ARGENTO (b. 1927)

Holy, Holy, Holy, Lord God of Sabaoth;
Heaven and earth are full of thy glory.
Hosanna in the highest.

Spireted Light... JAKE RUNESTAD - 4:47
PROGRAM NOTES: CHAMBER SINGERS

Mmmmm I murmured as the crumbs from my first bite of a Macrina Bakery cookie cascade down my shirt. Ohhh, she weightily sighs as a friend shares a wrenching story. Babbledy-gooahdiddymomo we inexplicably sing as we talk to yet another adorable baby. Each day we utter these sounds, inexplicable sounds fraught with meaning, loaded with knowing. For the spirit will help us with inexpressible groanings and sighs too deep for words wrote St. Paul to a first-century church in Rome, and these words are true even today in a very different context. The composers on tonight’s program each chose a sacred text (and in one case broke apart sacred texts into sounds) to create a personal expression of a different kind, note that three of the compositions begin with a unique meaning of the word O! Sacred music as vocalise, as eulogy, as minimalist expression, as drama—prepare to listen not so much to the words themselves but to the emotion they carry of the heart of those who speak tonight, composer, singer, conductor, you.

We begin with a prelude of sorts: exhorations, syllables, vocables, and sounds of all types that we use daily. Each oh, oo, or ah will be imbedded with different meanings. How many can you decipher, what moods do you capture. We follow our processional with Stephen Stucky’s color­ful and energetic O Sacrum Convivium, which treats this text as a vocalise for double choir. The result is a kaleidoscopic choral warm-up. Our first interlude, Bittersweet and HappySad, is an attempt to depict the two faces of death—a tragic enemy for those who cling to life, or a welcome guest for those tired and worn, sick and ready for the next journey. Each of us meets these emotions uniquely, alone, yet together. What kind of song better depicts this side by side emotion than the African American spiritual? The choir will one by one, yet together, sing these songs of survival, justice, death, life after death, and hope for a better life. Max Reger penned O Tod Wie Bitter Bist Du on a short train ride to visit his family upon the news of the death of his beloved niece. This quickly-penned piece is a wrenching shout against the pain of death for someone so full of life, and yet, side by side and back and forth, reminds us of the peace of death, and hope for the next life. Our next interlude, Listening to the why and how, is a play within a play, an etude that explains how Jennefelt created an imaginary language of beautiful sounds of beautiful words in six languages, and created a nonsense language full of emotional content. We will have group conversations while you listen, much like being at a party or in a crowded dining room listen not to the specifics of any conversation but to the pitch and energy of the room. Much like the indefinable sounds of our prelude, we are forced to listen to the emotional content of the words, rather than the words themselves. Listen to the rhythm, pitch and texture of the choir as we speak of excitement, pain, a secret, injustice. Jennefelt’s nonsense should make perfect sense. Interlude number 3: A world of beauty precedes Esenvalds’ O Salutaris Hostia. Latvian composer Eriks Esenvalds is a rising star in the choral scene and has created hugely popular works which emphasize the beauty of our world and the beauty of life. We portray this piece, set for two sopranos accompanied by the choir, as a picture of musical beauty being surrounded by a world of beauty. Interlude number 4: He’s got the Whole World in His Hands precedes our final work, Sanctus, from Dominick Argento’s opera Masque of Angels. Argento’s story is one of bored angels who get an assignment to help two people fall in love, and are themselves transformed by mundane human events, and secular worldly observations. Here the profane transforms the sacred. The text of the Sanctus is a part of traditional Christian worship spoken prior to sharing of the meal. Heaven and earth are full of your glory, say the gathered, as they recognize that believers both around the world and those saints who have gone before celebrate the meal together. The choir will explode on stage representing the important transforming role of song around the world.
