DEFIANT REQUIEM:
Verdi at Terezín

JUNE 2, 2017
MEANY THEATER
7:30 PM

"WE WILL SING WHAT WE CANNOT SAY TO THEM"
Defiant Requiem: Verdi at Terezín is a unique concert-drama that commemorates the remarkable story of courageous Jewish prisoners in the Theresienstadt Concentration Camp (Terezín) during World War II, who performed the ambitious Verdi Requiem while enduring the depths of human degradation. Prisoner Rafael Schächter (1905-1945), a graduate of the Prague Conservatory, using a smuggled score and single piano, organized a 150-person Jewish choir that performed Verdi’s celebrated Requiem 16 times between 1943 and 1944. Schächter selected this highly dramatic composition because of the power of both the music and its Latin text.

This is not an ordinary performance of the Verdi Requiem, but a concert-drama created by Maestro Murry Sidlin as a tribute to the inspired leadership and courage of Rafael Schächter and the Terezín choir. It combines the magnificent music of Giuseppe Verdi’s Requiem, with video testimony from survivors of the original chorus, and segments of the Nazi propaganda film made at Terezín in 1944, used to deceive the world about the living conditions of Jews in the camp. The performance also includes actors who speak the words of conductor Rafael Schächter and others.

The text of the Requiem is part of the living liturgy of the Catholic Church. But for Schächter and the Terezín Jews, it was their act of defiance; a temporary solace from their brutal confinement and likely deportation, an assurance of God’s presence and a desire to express a collective spiritual belief in their own humanity amidst the unspeakable violations perpetrated against them. The longest section of Verdi’s score, the Dies irae (Day of Wrath), was seen by Schächter and the choir as a certainty of what awaited their Nazi oppressors: “nothing shall remain unavenged.” Singing these words to the Nazis gave the prisoners the courage to persevere and to defy Nazi brutality, however temporarily. Schächter told the members of the choir: “We will sing to the Nazis what we cannot say to them.”

Following the deportation of close to 470 Jews from Denmark to Theresienstadt, at the urging of the Danish King, the Nazis agreed to permit a delegation from the International Red Cross to visit Theresienstadt. The Nazis made elaborate and cunning efforts in advance of the visit to deceive the delegation and the world. On June 23, 1944, the International Red Cross and members of the Nazi high command came to Theresienstadt for an “inspection.” Rafael Schächter and his choir were ordered, under duress, to entertain the delegation with what became their last, and most bittersweet, performance of the Requiem.

On October 16, 1944, four months after the final performance, Schächter and most of the choir were deported to Auschwitz. The majority were immediately murdered in the gas chambers. Schächter survived Auschwitz, but in the spring of 1945, at age 39 and with a great career ahead of him, he most likely perished on a death march. A month later Czechoslovakia was liberated.

The concert this evening honors the memory of Rafael Schächter, his choir, and the performances of Verdi’s Requiem in Terezín. This concert celebrates Schächter’s moral courage and the transcendent power of the arts and humanities. Resonating throughout the performance is the universal message that the human spirit can be elevated in the most oppressive conditions, that hope and resilience are indomitable, that mankind can rise above bondage and horror. Schächter and his fellow Jewish prisoners demonstrated that it is possible to respond to the worst of mankind with the best of mankind.

The lessons of Terezín are powerful, dramatic, and inspirational, with a contemporary message of hope for all who are caught up in conflict and who hear this story.

Quantus tremor est futurus, quando judex est venturus cuncta stricte discussurus.

Liber scriptus - Mezzo-soprano and Chorus

A written book will be brought forth which contains everything for which the world shall be judged. And so when the Judge takes his seat whatever is hidden shall be made manifest, nothing shall remain unavenged.

The day of wrath, that day will dissolve the world in ashes, as David prophesied with the Sibyl.
Quid sum miser - Soprano, Mezzo-soprano, and Tenor

Quid sum miser tunc diciturus?
Quem patronum rogaturus,
cum vix justus sit securus?

What shall I, a wretch, say then?
Whom shall I ask to plead for me,
when scarcely the righteous are safe?

Rex tremendae - Quartet and Chorus

Rex tremendae majestatis,
qui salvandos salvas gratis,
salva me, fons pietatis.

King of dreadful majesty,
who freely saves the redeemed,
save me, O Fount of Pity.

Recordare, Jesu pie,
quod sum causa tuae viae,
ne me perdas illa die.

Recall, merciful Jesus,
that I was the reason for Thy journey:
do not destroy me on that day.

Quaerens me, sedisti lassus,
redemisti crcem passus;
tantis labor non sit cassus.

Seeking me, Thou didst sit down weary,
Thou didst redeem me, having endured the Cross:
let not such great pains have been in vain.

Juste judex ultionis,
donum fac remissionis
ante diem rationis.

Righteous Judge of vengeance,
give me the gift of redemption
before the day of reckoning

Ingemisco - Tenor

Ingemisco tanquam reus,
culpa rubet vultus meus,
supplicant parce, Deus.

I groan as one guilty,
and my face blushed with guilt.

Qui Mariam absolvisti,
et Iatronem exaudisti,
ihominis quoque spem dedisti.

Thou who didst absolve Mary [Magdalene]
and hear the prayer of the thief, hast given me hope as well.

Peces meae non sunt dignae,
sed tu, bonus, fac benignae,
ne perenni cremer igne.

My prayers are not worthy,
but Thou, O good one, show mercy,
lest I burn in everlasting fire.

Inter oves locum praesta,
et ab haedis me sequestra,
statuens in parte dextra.

Give me a place among the sheep,
and separate me from the goats,
placing me on Thy right hand.

Confutatis - Bass and Chorus

Confutatis maledictis,
flammis acribus addictis,
voca me cum benedictis.

When the damned are confounded and consigned to scarring flames, call me to be with the blessed.

Oro supplex et acclinis,
cor contritum quasi cinis,
gere curam mei finis.

I pray, suppliant and kneeling,
a heart as contrite as ashes,
take Thou my ending into Thy care.

Dies irae, dies illa,
solvat saeculum in favilla,
teste David cum Sibylla.

The day of wrath, that day
will dissolve the world in ashes,
as David prophesied with the Sibyl.
Lacrimosa – Solo Quartet and Chorus

Lacrimosa dies illa, qua resurget ex favilla
judicandus homo reus.
Huic ergo parce Deus,
pie Jesu Domine,
donai eis requiem. Amen.

That day is one of weeping
on which shall rise again from the ashes
the guilty man, to be judged.
Therefore spare this one, O God,
merciful Lord Jesus.
 Grant them rest. Amen.

III. Offertorio – Solo Quartet

Domine Jesu Christe, rex gloriae, libera animas omnium fidelium
defunctorum de poenis inferni et de profundo lacu.

Lord Jesus Christ, King of Glory, deliver the souls of all the faithful departed from the pains of hell and from the bottomless pit.

Libera eas de ore leonis,
ne absorbeat eas tauranus,
ne cadant in obscum;
 sed signifer sanctus Michael repreaesentet eas in lucem sanctam, quam olim Abrahae promisisti,
et semini ejus.

Deliver them from the jaws of the lion,
that hell may not swallow them up,
and they may not fall into darkness;
 but may the holy standard-bearer Michael bring them into the holy light, as Thou didst promise of old to Abraham and his seed.

Hostias et preces tibi,
Domine laudis offerimus.
Tu suscipe pro animabus illis,
quarum hodie memoriam facimus;
commemorate this day.

We offer unto Thee, O Lord, sacrifices and prayers of praise.
Do Thou receive them on behalf of those souls whom we commemorate this day.

IV. Sanctus – Chorus I and Chorus II

Sanctus, sanctus, sanctus, Dominus Deus Sabaoth!
Pleni sunt coeli et terra gloria tua.
Hosanna in excelsis!
Benedicte qui venit in nomine Domini.
Hosanna in excelsis!

Holy, holy, holy,
Lord God of Hosts!
Heaven and earth are full of Thy glory.
Hosanna in the highest!
Blessed is he that cometh in the name of the Lord.
Hosanna in the highest!

V. Agnus Dei – Soprano, Mezzo-soprano, and Chorus

Agnus Dei, qui tollis peccata mundi,
donai eis requiem.
Agnus Dei, qui tollis peccata mundi,
donai eis requiem sempiternam.

O Lamb of God, that takest away the sins of the world;
grant them rest.
O Lamb of God, that takest away the sins of the world;
grant them eternal rest.

VI. Lux aeterna – Mezzo-soprano, Tenor, and Bass

Lux aeterna luceat eis, Domine,
cum sanctis tuis in aeternum,
quia pius es.
Regniem aeternam donai eis, Domine,
et lux perpetua luceat eis;
cum sanctis tuis in aeternum,
quia pius es.

Let everlasting light shine on them, O Lord,
with Thy saints forever,
for Thou art merciful.
Grant them eternal rest, O Lord,
and let everlasting light shine upon them;
with Thy saints forever,
for Thou art merciful.
VII. Libera me – Soprano and Chorus

-libera me, Domine, de morte aeterna
-in die illa tremenda;
quando coeli movendi sunt et terra.
Dum veneris judicare saeculum per ignem.

Tremens factus sum ego et timor,
dum discussio venerit atque ventura ira.

Quando coeli movendi sunt et terra.

Dies irae, dies illa, calamitatis et miseriae,
dies magna et amara valde.

Requiem aeternam dona eis, Domine,
et lux perpetua luceat eis.

Libera me, Domine, de morte aeterna
-in die illa tremenda.

Deliver me, O Lord, from eternal death
on that awful day
when the heavens and earth shall be moved.
When Thou shall come to judge the world with fire.

I am seized with trembling and I fear the time when the trial shall approach, and the wrath to come.
When the heavens and the earth shall be shaken.
The day of wrath, that day, of calamity and misery, a dreadful and exceedingly bitter day.

Grant them eternal rest, O Lord,
and let everlasting light shine upon them.

Deliver me, O Lord, from eternal death
on that awful day.

PROGRAM NOTES

Requiem (1874) by Giuseppe Verdi (1813-1901)

Giuseppe Verdi was born in Le Roncole, near Busseto, in the (French) Duchy of Parma on October 9 or 10, 1813, and died in Milan, Italy, on January 27, 1901. He completed his Requiem in March 1873 (but later replaced the Liber scriptus choral fugue with its current version for solo mezzo-soprano). The work was premiered to an invited audience in the Cathedral of San Marco in Milan in 1874, with the composer conducting. The “authorized” American premiere took place at the Academy of Music in New York in November of the same year, through special arrangement with Ricordi.

It is striking, and almost shocking, that the composers of the most expressive requiem compositions – Berlioz, Brahms, and Verdi – were atheists or agnostics. Verdi was renowned for being far from deeply religious. The story of Verdi’s Requiem begins with two “great men”: noted Italian operatic composer Gioachino Rossini, who died of pneumonia in 1868, and the poet/patriot Alessandro Manzoni. When Manzoni died in 1873, Verdi was too grief-stricken to attend the funeral. Through his publisher, Ricordi, Verdi expressed his wish to dedicate a requiem to the two men. He thought it might be his last work.

Following the premiere of Don Carlos for the Paris Opéra in 1867, Verdi had considered himself retired. He was frustrated with being labeled “Wagnerian,” the Empress Eugénie had called his work “anti-Catholic,” and his lengthy involvement with soprano Teresa Stolz was causing marital strife with his second wife (and former mistress of two decades), Giuseppina Strepponi. During the next year, Verdi lost both his father-in-law and patron Antonio Barezzi, and his own father. After one of his most reliable librettists, Francesco Piave, suffered a debilitating stroke, Verdi decided to settle back as a gentleman farmer on his estate at Sant’Agata.

An Egyptian offer of 150,000 francs (twice his usual Parisian fee, paid “in gold”) enticed Verdi out of retirement, and his opera Aida marked a new highpoint for Italian grand opera, demanding a richer, more colorful approach to orchestration. From this point, Verdi praised the renewed joys of composition: “I adore art...when I am alone with my notes, my heart pounds and the tears stream from my eyes, and my emotion and my joys are too much to bear.” His Requiem combines the grandeur of Aida’s massive brass fanfares with new creations of simple musical beauty.
For five hundred years, the Latin Missa pro defunctis (Mass for the dead) has been sung on All Soul's Day (November 2) and at funerals. Verdi researched earlier requiems and concluded that the Dies irae, in particular, had never been musically treated in the exact spirit of the Latin text; he called Thomas of Celano's medieval poem "the most singable dramatic text" he had ever studied.

Verdi's Requiem divides the "day of judgment" in four parts, with the opening music recurring for musical effect. The opening has three sections: Dies irae, Tuba mirum (the last trumpet), and Mors stupebit (bass soloist narrating the silence that falls over the world). One line, cuncta stricte discussurus ("to unite those who are scattered"), was particularly meaningful to Verdi, as he felt it evoked Rossini (a unifying force in culture) and Manzoni (an advocate for unification of Italy). The latter parts of the Dies irae describe the "Book of Life" and present prayers for survival and forgiveness. It overshadows the rest of the Requiem both in intensity and in scope, demonstrating Verdi's ultimate synthesis of high drama and ancient spiritual sources.

Romantic requiems usually required full orchestra and mixed choir. France had started to employ female professional singers in choirs during the Baroque period, but the practice of replacing boys' voices with those of women was a new idea in central Europe, and rarely happened in communities that supported boys' choir programs. German choirs gradually incorporated women after Johann Mattheson did so in 1716. Felix Mendelssohn was the first composer to expect choirs of mixed gender; he first gave the female contralto prominence by writing solos for Madame Sainton Dolly in Elijah (1847). By 1859, the Crystal Palace Handel Festival featured 2,765 choral singers (accompanied by 460 players) of which 419 were labeled "male altos" and 300 "female contraltos." Women began to be listed as "sopranos" in opera choruses by mid-century, and usually, the voice type "alto" or "contralto" was omitted, as in the operas of Berlioz, Wagner, and even some of Verdi.

Verdi conducted the 1874 premiere of the work in the Cathedral of San Marco in Milan. Special permission from the Archbishop was required for women to participate in the church performance; they were hidden behind a screen, wore full black dresses, and "ample mourning veils."

Just after the private premiere of the Requiem, Verdi conducted the work at La Scala and took the work to Paris for seven sold-out concerts. Ricordi was careful to control the quality of the initial performances: in 1874, only Milan, Paris, and New York heard authorized renditions, conducted by Verdi, [Franco] Faccio, or [Emanuele] Muzio. The next year, the composer took the work to Paris, London, and Vienna, but unauthorized versions had already begun to pop up. Verdi reported in one of his letters, "At Ferrara an assassin of a band director arranged the Mass for Manzoni for military band and had it performed in an arena!"

By 1907, even New York City had enacted "Sunday laws" restricting concert performances on Sundays. The Metropolitan Opera provoked (and won) a major legal case over this issue by performing Verdi's Requiem on a Sunday, in a church, with a full orchestra, using a mixed choir that included women. The Requiem did not become a repertory piece until the late 1930s, as Milan only programmed it for commemorations (anniversaries of Manzoni's and Verdi's deaths and births) and benefit concerts (for Italian flood victims and hospitals). In Arturo Toscanini's landmark 1951 performance of Verdi's Requiem, the conductor controversially demanded ten male falsettists to "lighten the sound of the upper voices." He wanted, ironically, "a more mixed mixed chorus sound."

Verdi's Requiem is a tribute to the memory of valued friends and not an expression of deep personal faith. Most of the sections of the work do not end in triumph: Verdi called these his "musical question marks" about the nature of eternity and salvation. He hoped that his unique setting of this traditional liturgical text could transcend religious boundaries and be a work for all peoples in all times.
